Queen Cancels Most Engagements Upon Receiving Wire

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Queen Marie today cancelled all official and social functions scheduled for the remainder of her tour. The cancellation will be effective until the queen has official word from Bucharest that the condition of King Ferdinand is not as serious as reported to her last night.

The cable advices, which were not made public by Marie, but which were understood to have recorded a serious development in the king's illness, caused her majesty to announce last night soon after leaving Indianapolis that most of the remainder of the tour would be abandoned.

Definite announcement that the royal party would sail from New York on the Berengaria, November 24 was made today by Mrs. Nelson Morris, member of the American group aboard the train, after telephonic communication with New York.

Schedule from Louisville to New York remained in doubt today. It was expected that the special train would leave this city earlier than scheduled tonight and would arrive in Cincinnati in the morning, but beyond that train officials have made no plans.

Probate Vault Entirely Unhurt

With the exception of a few valuable records, wet by water which seeped through, the entire vault of the probate office is unhurt. Two oil stoves are furnishing heat for the workers in the vault and aiding in drying out the dampness of the vault.

Records which were stored in the basement, below the probate judge's office, were said to be very wet, having received virtually all of the deluge of water poured on the burning courthouse Friday morning. The commissioners are expected to remove these records to a place of safety, where they can be dried.

BEREAN CLUB ENDORSES PLANS FOR CURB MARKET IN CITIES

The membership of the Berean club, has gone on record as endorsing unanimously the plan for the opening of the curb market locally in February. Formal action was taken Wednesday afternoon in a meeting held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Ritter, 220 Cherry, Decatur.

Mrs. D. D. McGehee, presiding in the absence of Mrs. L. P. Troup, president, presented the plan to the club asking their pleasure. The plan was met with favor from the entire membership, the ladies promising their support from the standpoint of the consumer. They likewise plan to talk the advantage of the market as an excellent trade advantage for the housewife as well as a selling terminal for the producer.

The Berean club is the second club to go on record as favoring the curb market idea, the Progressive Culture club having formally declared an allegiance to the idea Monday afternoon when that club met with Mrs. George D. Williamson.

SEVENTY-FIVE OF FACULTY, GUESTS

Kiwanis Gathering at The Masonic Hall Tonight, 6:30

Approximately 75 teachers, members of the Albany and Decatur school faculties, are expected guests of the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club this evening at Masonic Hall where the regular weekly meeting is to be held at 6:30 o'clock.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the entertainment of the faculties which now has become an annual event in club life. Efforts were being made today to have the largest meeting of the year in point of attendance.

The meeting will be given over almost entirely to the entertainment program, business affairs being placed aside while the club is playing host.

Session May Be Solicitor's Last

The forthcoming session of circuit court in Cullman county may be the last of Solicitor D. C. Almon, as solicitor. He will retire in January after more than 20 years' service in this capacity to the people of the eighth judicial circuit. At the present time the Cullman term of court is the only criminal court scheduled prior to the date of his retirement.

BEREAN CLUB ENDORSES PLANS FOR CURB MARKET IN CITIES

Meanwhile the market idea is being presented to the producer, the growers of Morgan county, through the home demonstration and county farm agencies.

The Kiwanis club, local civic unit, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce already know the working of the market, its mutual advantage offered town and rural people, and have taken steps to aid in the establishment here.

Miss Sallye Hamilton, home demonstration agent, is speaking at Fairview school Friday night, acquainting the people of that section with the offered advantage. Miss Hamilton has made a number of talks throughout the county on the value of the market and declared recently that she had met with reasonable encouragement from the producers.

J. C. Ford, county farm agent, stresses the advantage of the market in the increased percentage of standards in products and the importance in financial worth of a diversified crop program.

KOSS COMPANY IS BROUGHT TO HALT

High River Waters Force Stop To Operations

The Koss Construction company, builders of the Tennessee river bridge, have been halted temporarily with a seven to eight foot rise in the river. Operations on coffer-dam number eight have stopped with an overflow into the work. It is anticipated that the rise will not last thru more than the next 48 hours. The river has risen 18 inches in the past 24 hours.

It was stated today at the office of the company that approximately 130 men have been laid off as the result of the rise, but that all forces are expected to be back at work by Monday. About 50 men are employed on the job at present.

Advices from Chattanooga upon river conditions vary. One source states that the river is rising above that point, while another is contradictory.

It is not believed that the Koss company will be held up later than Monday.

County Business Goes On As Usual

The business of Morgan county was going on much as usual, under difficulties, in the Aycock building today. The records which are kept in the vaults at night have to be removed to the Aycock building every morning. Some of the printed legal forms were lost in the fire but they are being replaced rapidly, and this morning citizens were being served by county officials with efficiency, despite the obstacles.

Several stoves have been installed in the building, making it as warm as possible.

STUDENTS BATTLE REPRESENTATIVES AS DATE OF "GRID" GAME DRAWS NEAR

Birmingham-Southern And Howard In Real Melee

POLICE ASKED FOR THEIR AID

Students Kidnapped And Painted In 'War Colors'

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Classes at Howard and Birmingham-Southern were much depleted today as result of numerous encounters between the two student bodies brought about through rivalry as their annual football clash approaches. The game is scheduled for Saturday.

Kidnappings, fights, numerous campus pranks, entering property unlawfully, hanging in effigy and various and sundry other things are charged by each student body. Police have been called in. Two students have been sent to hospitals.

The thing started a few days ago when Howard students broke into and pilfered from Birmingham-Southern a stuffed panther, which is the mascot of their team. The Howard campus was raided in search for the mascot and since that time each night has brought activity on the part of the student bodies.

Things reached a more serious phase when a Birmingham-Southern student was kidnapped last night. His head was shaved and he was sent back "all painted up." This was followed by the kidnapping of a Howard student, who received like treatment. This Howard man was presented forcibly at chapel at Birmingham-Southern today.

President Guy E. Snavely and other officials were indignant at the act and expressed strong disapproval. President Dawson, of Howard, likewise has criticized the conduct of his students.

It is known that the officials of both institutions have frowned upon the actions of their students. Classes today were practically abandoned at Birmingham-Southern. Dr. Snavely was holding a threat of drastic action over his students if their conduct is not improved.

RED CROSS DRIVE TO BEGIN FRIDAY

Solicitation Will Be Made Here Until Thanksgiving

Albany-Decatur's Red Cross drive for membership will open officially Friday, it was announced today by John D. Wyker, general chairman. F. A. Bloodworth, treasurer of the fund, is organizing the Albany solicitation committee today.

Mr. Wyker stated some days ago that the goal for this year was placed at a membership of 500 within these cities and with ladies of the committees putting efforts into the work it is believed that the goal will be reached within a short time.

The national drive extends until Thanksgiving Day, having opened on Armistice Day, but local leaders have been of the opinion that the drive for funds here could be put over in a shorter time. An intensive campaign will be opened Friday and continued until the quota is realized.

REPRESENTATIVES OF BASEBALL CLUB ARE PLEASED HERE

Accommodations Good For Training Camp In Twin Cities

WEATHER IN MARCH IDEAL

Ball Park and Hotel Pleasing To The Visitors Also

Representatives of a baseball club, who visited here with a view to bringing the club here for spring training, were very much pleased with the facilities offered here.

Final announcement of the plans of the club are expected to be made within a week or ten days and it was regarded here as extremely likely that Albany-Decatur would be selected for the training site.

The representatives were here yesterday and covered the local situation from every angle. The weather records, which had been prepared by Mrs. A. H. Irons, government observer, for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were satisfactory. Hotel accommodations were declared "very good, indeed," and Malone Park was regarded as an ideal place for training, after some improvements recommended have been made.

Following the inspection the visitors held a conference with representatives of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce and additional business men in the director's room of the Central National Bank, at which time propositions were submitted.

The visitors and the local people negotiating with them were guests at luncheon at the Lyons hotel of Manager Hughes.

The visitors were held in their praise of the possibilities of the playing park. The size of the field attracted them. It will be necessary, however, for some improvements to be made there. The playing field will be improved, and hot water will be installed in the swimming pool shower rooms for the convenience of the athletes.

Watchman Guards Courthouse Now

A watchman is on duty at the courthouse to warn people away from the wrecked structure and to keep an eye on the numbers of records still in the building. Danger signs have been posted at all of the gates leading into the courthouse property.

Several workmen were engaged today in clearing away the debris from the lower floor, which was hardly hurt by the fire, but suffered considerable damage from water and smoke.

Telephones Are Installed Today

Telephones are being installed in the temporary courthouse in the Aycock building. A crew of telephone workers is engaged in the task and within a day or two lights and telephones will be serving all of the building.

BUY AT HOME

Youth evidently thinks as much about this buy at home business as his elders. Talking with a young fellow yesterday, he said, "You don't think so much about this trade at home slogan when you are away, you generally have money in your pocket when you're in another city and things look a little different. You just go in and buy, perhaps because you have nothing else to do. When you get home and walk into a home shop you can't help but feel you've done the wrong thing. There is something to this loyalty argument."

City loyalty is even more pronounced in the man who has learned to Buy at Home.

Snappy Talker

Sharp answers by Barbara Tough featured the trial of three persons at Somerville, N. J., for the Hall-Mills murder. She, a maid in the Hall home, described actions of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and Willie Stevens, two of the accused, following the murder.

The building will adjoin the structure formerly occupied by the Patterson Mercantile Company and is in the heart of the new Moulton street business section.

The building will be of face brick and very attractive in appearance. It will be 25 feet in width and 100 feet in depth. Mr. Rountree stated he was not ready, at this time, to make any announcement regarding rumored plans for construction of additional store buildings on lots owned by him in the same section.

PARIS, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—W. W. McElroy, fireman on the second section of L. & N. freight train No. 121 and Irving Thomas, engineer, are in a Paris hospital severely injured as a result of a collision with the first section of No. 112 on Lemonds curve, east of Paris early this morning. Mr. McElroy's arm was mangled and was amputated; his other injuries, including possible fractures of both legs and a missing finger. Thomas's shoulder was broken. Engineer James Winfield of the opposing train saw the headlight of the other in time to stop his engine and jump to safety. It is reported confusion in orders resulted in the collision.

Lonnie Pettey Is Out Of Hospital

Lonnie Pettey, former local resident, now employed by the Tennessee Iron and Coal company in Birmingham, is out of the hospital after having been confined there, suffering from an injury to his head sustained when he was struck by a piece of steel. His injuries were thought for a time to be serious.

MUCH INTEREST IN ROAD PARLEY

County Citizens To Attend Hartselle Meet Saturday

Attention is centered in the forthcoming marshaling of road forces and interests of Morgan county. Delegates from the 34 beats of the county and many public spirited citizens will gather at Hartselle city hall Saturday afternoon at two o'clock to discuss future road laws of this county.

Favorable expressions have been heard from citizens in all classes of business and farming pursuits and Representatives John Patterson and F. E. Burleson are of the opinion that one of the largest road meetings in the history of the county will be held Saturday.

Discussion of proposed changes in Morgan county road laws will of course center the meeting. Representatives Patterson and Burleson are asking suggestions from citizens of every district in order that a law may be enacted which is suitable to the majority.

"We do not expect to abide by the suggestions made to us entirely," declared Mr. Patterson today, "but we will certainly weigh the opinions of each section as voiced by the delegates of that section." The representatives have previously talked with members of the board of revenue.

First Snow Of Season Falling

The first snow of the season fell here today, as the cold wave washed against Albany-Decatur. Last night the temperature dropped to 29, according to Mrs. A. H. Irons, government observer, while today the mercury had risen to 36.

Only a few flakes fell during the morning, but they served to start older residents reminiscing over previous snowfalls this early in the season. Twelve years ago snow fell here in October.

ONE ESCAPE AND TWO WOMEN CAPTURED BY SHERIFF'S FORCE

Dave Bell, negro escapee from Morgan county jail, Maude Simpson and Eva Simpson, negro women, are back in jail today following their capture Wednesday afternoon late near Greenbrier, Limestone county. Officers declared today that the negroes surrendered. All means of escape had been cut off.

Traveling to the Limestone point by automobile, Sheriff C. E. Poole, Deputy Ben Poole, Jim Mullen and W. R. Turner were reinforced by Sheriff Gilbert of Limestone county and J. A. Hackworth. The negroes were located in an upstairs room of a negro home and surrendered after officers had demanded admittance.

Bell made his escape from the local jail last Sunday about noon along with Willie Gray, another negro, who has not been located. Bell and Gray are said by officers to have been aided by the negro

Voice Is Feeble As Farmer Accuses Defendants

WITNESS ON A BED OF PAIN

Doctor And Nurse In Attendance On Invalid

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Jane Gibson, star witness for the state in the Hall-Mills trial, finished her testimony at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon, after being in the courtroom three hours.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Jane Gibson, supported by a physician and nurse, raised herself on a hospital bed in court here today to point to Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, as three persons she saw near the spot where the bodies of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were found.

The woman farmer, introduced the double killing, was brought in an ambulance from a Jersey City hospital and began her testimony with a nurse sitting at the edge of her bed and a physician at the head.

She spoke in a low voice as she started to tell her story and the court stenographers repeated her answers to the jury, but as she proceeded, her voice grew stronger and when she finished direct examination, occupying 25 minutes, she could be heard clearly. Her story was substantially the same as that she had previously told except that she said she saw Henry Stevens at the spot, after she had previously seen Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens in a sedan parked in DeRussey's lane.

She declared that she heard voices of men and women and the words: "Explain letters" and several oaths by men. An oath preceded the demand: "Let go," she testified. She then told of four shots which she described as "bang, bang, bang, bang." Her recital of screaming in a woman's voice she emphasized with: "Oh my! Oh my! What terrible screaming."

"I seen a man and another man," she said when she told of seeing Henry Stevens. She was not asked to identify the "other man." She had previously said she saw Henry Carpenter at the scene but the state's representatives warned her not to say who the "other man" was in her testimony today. Henry Carpenter is under indictment but is not on trial with his three cousins.

She saw Willie Stevens in the automobile, but not at the spot where the mumble of voices was heard. Mrs. Hall was described as present later, wringing her hands. Mrs. Hall was asked to remove her hat, which she did as the witness was held up to make her identification. Willie Stevens leaned slightly forward as Mrs. Gibson told her story. Henry

Misses Lena Crawford, Opie Lee Gray, and Martha T. Armstrong were the week-end guests of Miss

Stevens sat back in his chair and Mrs. Hall's expression changed only once. She smiled slightly as Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked that her hat be removed.

Mrs. Gibson arrived here at 11:08 to testify for the state. The witness, who has been sick in a Jersey City hospital, was brought to the hospital in an ambulance. A bed awaited her in the courtroom.

A great crowd, waiting for hours on the courthouse lawn, surged forward as the ambulance drove up to the courthouse. Police kept the people back as a nurse stepped out. A veritable medicine chest was taken from the ambulance before the patient was seen. With her face shielded from the gaze of on-lookers Mrs. Gibson was carried on a stretcher into the courtroom.

The jury was brought in at 11:23.

Mrs. Newton Hatchett is visit-her sworn, "Prosecutor Simpson announced. A Bible was carried to her cot.

"Do you solemnly swear" began the court attendant, and Mrs. Gibson replied: "I do," very feebly.

"Jane Gibson," Simpson corrected.

"Where were you on the night of September 14, 1922?"

"At home," she replied.

Mrs. Gibson told how she had been robbed of corn and when she heard her dog barking, the night of September 14, 1922, she went outside her house. She then heard a wagon stop in the middle of her cornfield, she said, and suspected it of being the wagon of the thieves, she saddled her mule "Jenny" and went to follow the wagon which, in the meantime, had driven away.

She described how she remained about 50 feet behind the wagon as she followed it in the direction of New Brunswick. Mrs. Gibson, in a tired voice, told of having seen Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens at the road near the scene of the killing. Her head began rocking back and forth on the pillow. An attendant stood up and began taking her pulse.

"I saw a white woman and a colored man," she testified. "He didn't have no hat on."

"The woman was Mrs. Hall and afterwards learned the man was Willie Stevens."

The defendants groaned as the the flashlight was on. "Did you identify those faces?" "Yes." "Was the man's face that of Henry Stevens?" "Yes, it was Henry Stevens." "Was the other face that of Willie Stevens?" "No." "Did you hear anything?" "The light went out and I heard a shot, something heavy fall and I ran for the mule. There were two women there. The one began to cry: 'Oh! Henry,' while the other was screaming: 'O. My. O. My.' So terrible, so loud."

"I ran for the mule after the first shot, then there was scream after scream. I just got to the mule when bang, bang, bang, I heard three shots."

"I stumbled over a stump and the mule and I ran for home. When I put the mule in the barn I got my foot wet and discovered I had lost my moccasins. I went in the house and sat down. Then I thought I was foolish to run away and I went back to hunt for my moccasins. The moon was out bright. I walked around the stump where my mule was tied and a screech owl began hooting. I jumped up and listened and then moved slowly through the bushes."

"I saw a woman, with white hair, bending down fixing something and crying, the same woman I saw early in the evening. It was Mrs. Hall."

WOMEN FIND HAPPINESS COMES WITH GOOD HEALTH

"More and more now mothers realize that good health is needed for happiness; because it gives them that buoyancy of spirit and energy needed to overcome the thousand-and-one problems arising daily in a mother's life.

That's why you will find so many wives and mothers using St. Joseph's G. F. P. for that purpose for which it is intended.

Mrs. J. A. Bradford, who lives at 3801 Race St., out in Dallas, Texas, says, "I was dreadfully run-down." My back hurt and sometimes, I would get so weak I could hardly stand.

"I kept hearing other women tell about St. Joseph's G. F. P., so I got a bottle and started using it.

"The first bottle helped me so much I kept right on using this medicine, and am now on my fifth bottle. I am gaining in weight and strength and sleep better and eat more than I have in years."

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of
November 18, 1914

A short session was held last night by the Decatur city council.

Vince Walker, George Wallace, Cooper Adams and T. M. Jones, Jr., have returned from Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Wyker returned yesterday from an extended stay in the north.

Mrs. Wm. Cowden entertained the Priscillas Tuesday afternoon as a courtesy to Mrs. Bruner Smith, her sister.

H. O. Goodrich and family have gone to Nashville to make their future home.

While we are about it, let Morgan county have a courthouse of which the present and the future generations will be proud.

The G. O. P. elephant in Illinois and Pennsylvania appears to the rest of the country to have been painted white.

The Twin Cities as a training camp for a baseball club... that's the stuff.

It doesn't take long now to get civic propositions acted on in Albany-Decatur. That is the kind of spirit that wins.

Congratulations to Madison county. The ear of corn, grown at Bloomfield, by J. G. Cloud, and measuring 15 1-2 inches from tip to tip, would have done credit to the product of Morgan county.

"King Ben" Purnell, 60-year leader of the House of David, has been captured after a search of several years. The law is not always easy to beat. Sometimes it functions relentlessly.

A German chemist finds a formula for making synthetic gas from coal. With the price of the latter article on the upgrade Americans would be more interested in a method for making synthetic coal from gas.

Other communities are in the midst of their community chest campaigns and working valiantly. The difference in these communities and our own is that the Twin Cities will be conducting more or less similar campaigns throughout the year.

The Methodists are looking for a most successful year. So are the Baptists and the remainder of the local denominations. In fact so is everybody. The ensuing 12 months, The Daily believes, will be quite the most successful in every way, in Albany-Decatur.

The praise being heaped on the members of the board of revenue, because of the promptness they have displayed in handling the situation arising as a result of the burning of the courthouse is certainly well deserved. Morning, noon and night these faithful members have been on the job.

The National Grange is discussing Muscle Shoals again. The time is not far distant now, when the periodic row will begin in congress over disposition of the Shoals. Fortunately Albany and Decatur have decided to wait no longer on Muscle Shoals, but to forge ahead in civic expansion regardless of what Congress does or does not do with the great Alabama project. If congress acts unfavorably, our speed will be that much faster. And, incidentally, had we arrived at that conclusion five years ago, the Twin Cities would have had 50,000 residents today.

HUNDRED MEN RETURN TO WORK IN THE SHOPS HERE.

Added to the accumulating instances of industrial growth in the Twin Cities is the official confirmation of the fact that 100 men, at least, will return to their jobs in the car department at the Louisville and Nashville shops here.

The addition to the local payroll would be most welcome anytime, but particularly so just at this period of the year when the thoughts of the people are on the forthcoming visit of Old Santa, and the funds necessary to make his visit a complete success.

The appreciation of this community to the Louisville and Nashville railroad is forthwith extended, and The Daily hopes that the business which has justified this return of men to work, will continue and that the road's future operations will be so profitable that others may be employed here as well.

TWIN CITIES LIKELY TO BE TRAINING SITE FOR BALL CLUB.

It is with more than ordinary pleasure that the Daily, in its news columns, today publishes the fact that it is very likely that a baseball club will train in the Twin Cities next spring. The Daily extends its congratulations to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which agency has been negotiating with the club owners, and to the business men who are aiding the plan.

It is a pleasure for The Daily to make this announcement, first of all, because The Daily believes it will be a great thing for Albany-Decatur, but second it long has been one of the pet propositions of this newspaper.

Nearly a year ago, The Daily urged anew that local people take up the proposition of bringing a baseball club here to train. Before that other efforts had been made to arouse interest in the plan.

The good which might accrue to these cities as the result of a ball club coming here to train are manifold. The publicity to be obtained, of course, is a major factor. There is almost no end to the advertising a community might receive as a result of being used as a spring training camp. In the particular case here, The Daily understands that three newspaper men accompany the ball team. They would, of course, have daily articles in regard to team's activities and, incidentally, of the cities. Other newspapers also would print news of the results of games, etc., and the local date line would appear in every section of the United States.

Every team which comes here to play will bring its quota of newspaper writers and additional publicity will be given to the Twin Cities. How much this is worth to Albany and Decatur is hardly to be estimated.

TWIN CITIES GIVE OBJECT LESSON TO THE PEOPLE OF DOTHAN.

The Dothan Eagle is endeavoring to awaken the people of that community to greater civic expansion. Recently The Eagle, under the caption, "We can Jog Along or We Can Speed Up," published an editorial from The Daily, with the following comment:

Every town has its skeptics who look with pessimism upon every new undertaking, whether it be a new school or whatnot. This element does not build towns into cities; it even hinders those with vision and confidence who try. Thus, upon the shoulders of the band of optimists—and often times a small band—rests the destiny of a community. They may be Babbitts, but they are the backbone of every town and city in America.

Dothan has her share of loyal and energetic citizens who would do bigger things for the city and who, despite the cold water flung by opposition, will one day bring into activity their dreams.

We have something to learn from the Twin Cities. We have something to learn from Opelika. We have something to learn from every town in Alabama that has bid for and landed industries.

We know that if we sit still Dothan will continue to grow gradually because of the ideal farming land which surrounds us. We likewise know that if we get cheap power and manufacturing plants that the town will develop more rapidly.

We have our choice. We can do either. To use the Twin Cities as examples to other communities is, indeed, a tribute to the accomplishments of Albany-Decatur during the past two years. The Age-Herald also recently told, in an editorial, of the remarkable record made here and in other municipalities of this state.

The Twin Cities are "coming into their own." At last the Twin Cities are utilizing all of the wonderful advantages given them by nature and the people of this community need not fear that other sections are not hearing of this progress, and being cheered by it.

CURTAILING CROP SURPLUS MAY GIVE HIGHER PRICE.

The Christian Science Monitor finds something familiar in the efforts of England to hold up the price of rubber and the effort in the United States to prevent the cotton crop from being sold at a figure which would result in a loss for the producer.

The Monitor says:

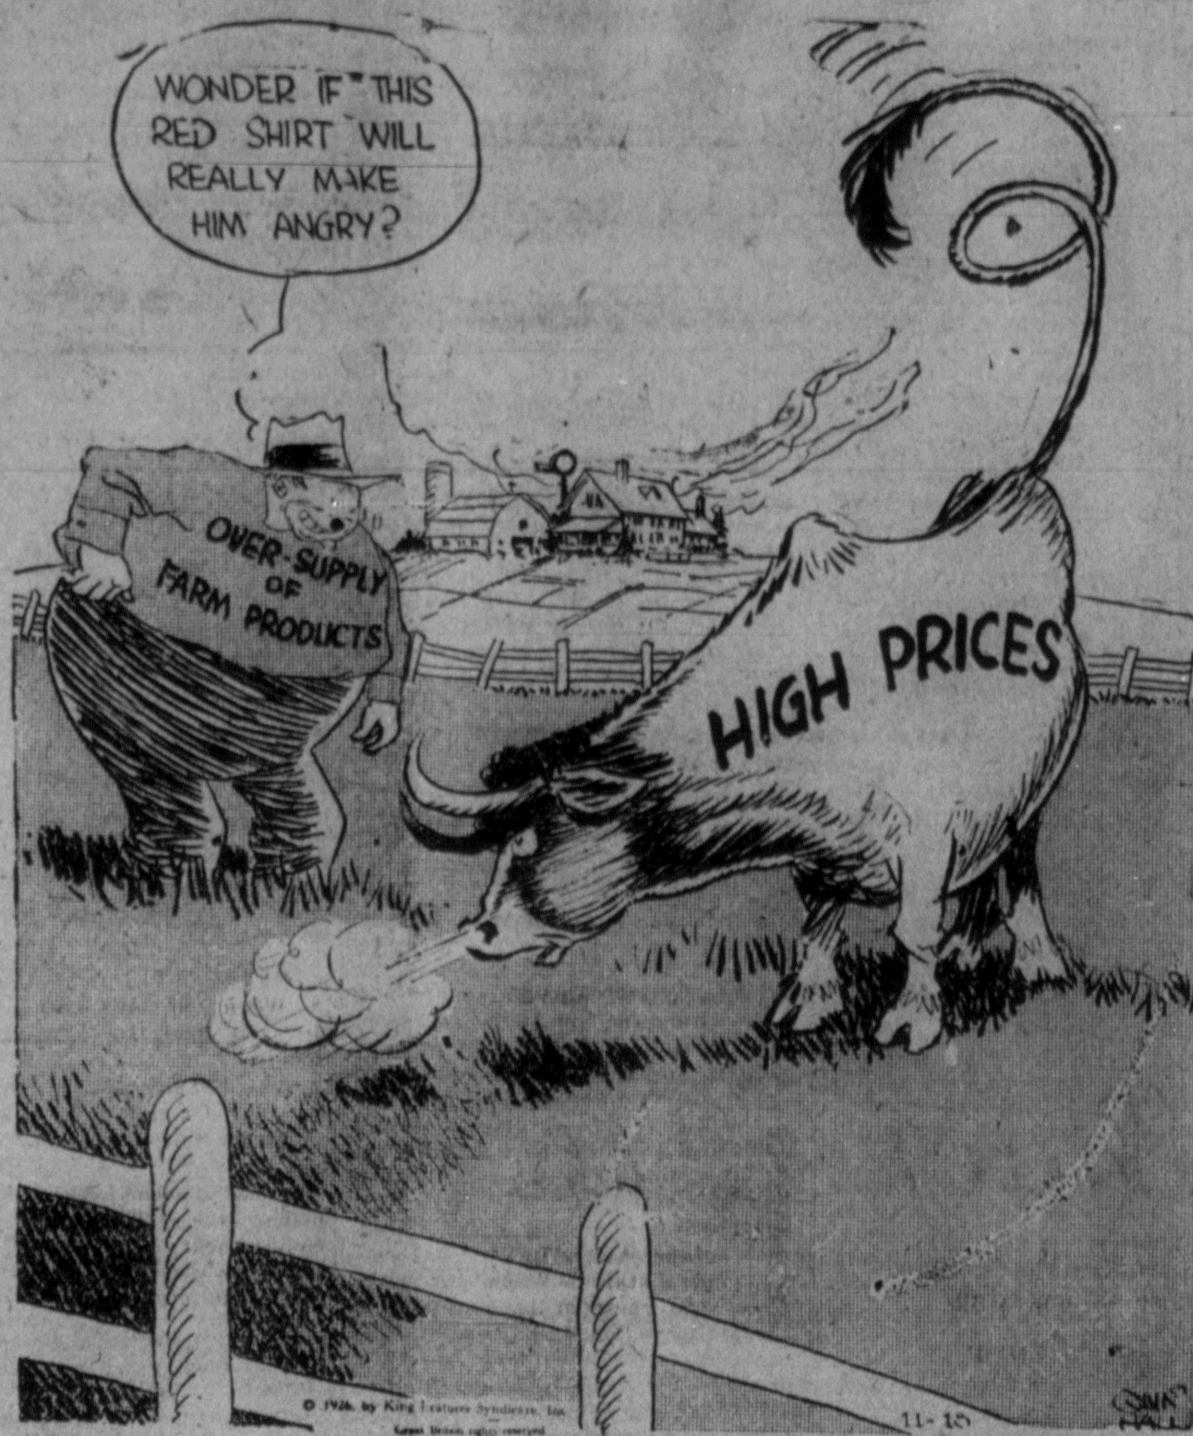

London has decided to renew the restriction on the exportation of rubber from British colonial territory. This action is taken under the so-called Stevenson Act of 1922, which provides for the curtailment of exports of raw rubber when the price in the world markets decline below a certain point. Inasmuch as about 70 per cent of the raw rubber of the world is produced within the territory controlled, this law effectively prevents the price of rubber from going below a point which is considered unprofitable to the planters. While this scheme has at times called forth rather severe criticism on the part of buyers in other parts of the world, the plan has prevented disaster to those engaged in the production of the commodity.

In the United States, where much of the criticism of the Stevenson Act originated, a similar event is taking place. The cotton production of the South promises to be unprecedented, with the result that raw cotton today is reputed to be selling far below its actual cost. Faced with an apparent surplus, some well-meaning advocates are proposing that a definite proportion of the crop shall be withheld from market and that the acreage to be planted next year to cotton shall be reduced 25 per cent. That is not entirely dissimilar to the English scheme of restricting exports of rubber when the world price becomes too low. While it is probably not possible that cotton restrictions can be operated in a manner similar to the British rubber restrictions, the effects accomplished may nevertheless be very similar. Both schemes may prove rather drastic in some features, but that cannot be avoided when the so-called law of supply and demand is violently interfered with.

Economically it is impossible to remove absolutely a commodity surplus. That could be done only by its complete destruction, which would involve a monetary outlay staggering in its total. The alternative is to delay the marketing of a proportion of the crop until another season is at hand. The low price of a commodity itself tends to discourage the production during the succeeding season. Undoubtedly, the high price of cotton last year—at one time dealers in the commodity thought it would advance to forty cents a pound—had much to do with the increased acreage planted in the United States this year will prove the best deterrent to planting a large crop next season. In the meantime finance corporations can assist materially in the storing and holding of the surplus production until such time as the market is in a position to absorb all of the crop. Just so the Stevenson plan can restrict the actual exports of raw rubber until the markets of the world are in a position to take the commodity and consume it in an orderly way. These schemes actually have not for their purpose the destruction of the surplus of any crop, but are designed to regulate the more orderly marketing of the commodities.

There is, however, a big difference in the English plan and the one in America. So far as this newspaper has been able to discover, no one has ever contended that the English rubber producers were threatened with economic losses because of the low price for their product. That was the situation confronting the cotton producers. The law of supply and demand is fine in theory, but when prices drop below the cost of production, something else must be substituted. Efforts must be made to bring about an economic level which will prevent starvation among the planters. This seems to be the objective of the cotton-holding movement and because it is right, it will succeed.

ANNOYING IF NOT DISASTROUS

Today:

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co. For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

BISHOP MANNING of New York's Protestant Episcopal church is annoyed because the Roman Catholic church has annulled the marriage of the Duke of Marlborough to Consuelo Vanderbilt.

Thirty-one years ago they were married in St. Thomas' Episcopal church in New York. Both had been baptized in the Episcopal faith in infancy. The American duchess divorced her British duke six years ago, both have married again. Before that they had two children, one of whom will be the next duke of Marlborough.

MONSIGNOR LAYELLE, speaking for Catholicism, says the Catholic church "does not annul a marriage without good reason for a duke any more than it would for a tramp."

"There might have been a sinful agreement between them before the marriage, that would nullify the marriage, such as agreeing not to have more than one or more children, or to divorce and remarry if they grew tired of each other."

THE Catholic church refused a divorce demanded by Henry VIII. of England, although he had the power, and used it, to take away all the property of the Catholic church in Great Britain. Henry the Eighth's annoyance over the incident saved Martin Luther. Charles the Fifth, to oblige his friend Henry of England would not allow the Catholic authorities to seize Luther when he appeared at Worms, defying Rome. But for that divorce incident there wouldn't have been any Lutheran church.

A QUESTION that perhaps interests the Vanderbilt family is "now that the Duke of Marlborough, announcing his intention to become a Roman Catholic, has had his marriage annulled, will he return to his wife the seven million good American dollars extracted from the W. K. Vanderbilt fortune previous to his marriage, by the intelligent solicitor that the duke brought with him from London?" The answer probably is: "No. Findings, keepings."

MISS ELEANOR DORRANCE, intelligent daughter of an able father, enters her father's factory at the age of 18, to help manufacture 350,000,000 cans of soup every year. The young lady, fortified by a course of study at the Sorbonne in Paris, will earn 30 cents an hour peeling tomatoes. That isn't much for an only child whose father is worth fifty millions.

THIS highly educated girl should first make sure that all mineral salts in the vegetables and meat are preserved in the soup, then move over to the advertising department and write about it. There she might double her father's output and income.

AMERICAN cooking methods usually boil out the precious mineral salts and throw them away. Feed one rat abundant food from which all mineral salts have been extracted. Give another rat nothing but plain water. The plain water rat will out-live the other.

PROF. JULIAN HUXLEY, heir to the scientific genius of the great Huxley, says the life of human beings is to be much longer in future generations. Eugenics will breed stronger babies, end infantile deaths, and births will be fewer. They must be to prevent over population. The elephant lives one hundred years, its female only having two or three calves in that time, usually, and it knows nothing of birth control.

EVERYBODY says we are to live much longer, but nobody has definite plans to make longer life worth while. Merely to dance, eat, drink and make a little more money for fifty additional years would be hardly worth while.

CONGRATULATE Mexico on one proof of enlightenment. The government forbids importation and use of "comforters," harmful rubber nipples put into babies' mouths to keep them from crying. They exhaust the baby's salivary glands, make the top of the mouth too high. And the teeth crooked. We still use thousands of them in the United States, as we once poisoned hundreds of thousands of babies with soothing syrup.

DR. MILLIKAN, brilliant California scientist, says the last 30 years have been the most brilliant in the history of mankind and have done more than any other period to enrich the human race.

The statement is true, if you put material benefit above intellectual achievement.

BUT there are no six names in the last thirty years that can stand beside the names of Copernicus, Tycho Brahe, Kepler, Galileo, Descartes, and Newton, the immortal sextet of celestial mechanics.

wealth.

WITH the end of the long coal strike, British union labor, confessing defeat, weakens probably for years the political party that only recently put in MacDonald as prime minister.

A great war means one of three things: Greater conservatism, chaotic revolution, or dictatorship. You can study all three in England, and ultra conservatism here.

Three a Day

Shoshones—A linguistic stock or family of North American Indians comprising many tribes which extend from Montana and Idaho into Mexico.

Weatherbound—Kept in port at anchor by storms, delayed by bad weather.

Galoot—A noisy, swaggering or worthless fellow, a rowdy.

Buy at home—your cities will grow as trade facilities expand here.

The Views of Others

Although the local people are figuring their plans for future prosperity on the basis of their own efforts to bring about industrial development, rather than from point of view as to what is going to be done about Muscle Shoals, it is rather gratifying to note that the number of important people are coming to the district for serious study of the projects here appears to be increasing rather than diminishing, indicating that there is no lessening of interest in the possibility of useful operations of the great plants. That some of these visitors have been experts representing some of the greatest organizations of the country is another encouraging feature. Muscle Shoals is not a dead issue by any means, nor is it one that is even close to being forgotten.

A MODERN TREND

Thanksgiving Day, which has a dual significance for the American people, is less than ten days away. All that has been said in past years at this season regarding the gloomy outlook on life which may be the lot of the gobbler now is in order. Likewise, the football fans have a few days in which to consider the instances in which their favorite eleven ran true to form or ran more or less into trouble. Then comes the day of the traditional dinner.

Once upon a time, when the institution of Thanksgiving was in its swaddling clothes, so to speak, football had no place in American life. Now, football is about the biggest event of Thanksgiving Day for a large section of the public. The churches continue to attract thousands, but the attendance at the special Thanksgiving services is not what it once was, and maybe it is a result of the competition of the sports that there is an apparent increase in favor of holding Thanksgiving services the Sunday before or after the last Thursday in November.

The nation is losing none of its interest in the annual day, set aside by custom and a presidential proclamation, for a return to the duty of thanks for Divine blessings, but it does seem that that interest is being focused to a greater and greater extent on football, the annual season coming to a close on Thanksgiving Day.

It all affords a sharp contrast with the fervency and devotion of former years, but the argument is advanced that the day is long enough for a participation in both prayers and cheers and the Christian soldiers add the graduates of the gridiron go marching on simultaneously.—Gadsden Times-News.

PROGRAM AND RECEPTION GIVEN CLUB DELEGATES AT DISTRICT MEETING OF A. F. W. C.

The twelfth annual meeting of the First District of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs opened last evening with a most auspicious beginning, and not since the meeting was held in Florence four years ago, has there been such a distinguished gathering of club women in the Muscle Shoals District.

The guests arrived at noon on Tuesday, and at 2:30 o'clock they were taken over the entire district or a pleasure drive. The opening session was held in the auditorium of the Desha High school, which had been previously decorated with fall foliage and specimen chrysanthemums. Mrs. James Palmer of Tusculum, local general chairman, most graciously presided. The program opened with "America the Beautiful," sung by the assembly. Mrs. L. E. Greel of the Inclusive Study club of Sheffield, extended a most cordial welcome to the visitors. In the absence of the district manager, Mrs. W. E. Goodrich, her place was ably filled by Mrs. L. P. Troup, who in a charming manner, responded to the address of welcome. A double quartet from the Florence Music Study club sang two selections with Mrs. U. O. Redd at the piano, and Dr. Leland W. Chapman artistically sang, "A Song of Thanks" and "E'en as a Flower."

At the conclusion of the program, a brilliant reception was tendered at the lovely Tennessee Valley Country club. Yellow and white chrysanthemums in silver baskets and stands were profusely used to decorate the large drawing rooms and tea room. The receiving line was composed of Mrs. Parke, Mrs. Troup, Mrs. Yarbrough, Mrs. Beasley, Mrs. Creel and Mrs. Palmer. An ice course was served, after which coffee and cheese straws were dispensed in the tea room. Music was furnished throughout the reception hours by Miss Baker's orchestra and the evening proved one of unusual pleasure. Tri-Cities Daily.

Children's Colds

Best Treated Externally

CONSTANT dosing upsets little stomachs. Modern mothers prefer to treat children's colds externally—with Vicks VapoRub. They simply rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Vicks acts two ways at once:

(1) Like the old-fashioned poultice in "drawing out" the soreness and pain; and, at the same time,

(2) Like a modern vapor lamp because the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of medicated vapors which are inhaled all night long. These loosen the phlegm and open the congested air passages.

Most colds yield by morning to this double direct action.

Paris Style Hints

BY ALICE LANGEIER International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—Country ensembles are taking an important place in the smart Parisienne's wardrobe, now that she is going in more and more for sports and outdoor play.

One of the smart dressmakers is making what she calls the "hopsack ensemble," composed of hopsack in the fashionable shade of green-yellow known in French as "tulleu." The dress is of plain yellow, cut very simply with the new square neckline and shaped yoke, flat seams and pockets. The coat is of striped hopsack, cosy and loose, with a becoming large collar and deep cuffs of nutria.

Brown is ideal for autumnal days in the country. Borders woven into the fabric are new and provide color and a change. A charming one in brown kasha has self-colored buttons with a cleverly pleated skirt bordered with the fabric in a deeper tone. Pleated skirts with deep borders of woven Bavardere stripes in all sorts of coloring are also popular. The most are those who did not use it with their first baby but through its use with the second, were able to realize its almost unbelievable results.

Bill Grimm's Progress H.C. WITWER

Copyright, 1926, by Collier's Weekly and G. F. Putnam Sons
"Bill Grimm's Progress" is a pictorialization by Film Booking Offices of America, Inc. (F. B. O.) of H. C. Witwer's stories of the same name.

SYNOPSIS
Bill Grimm, risen to the front ranks of heavyweight boxing, is signed to meet the champion, Barbara Foster in his fiancée and manager of his team; Carlton Herne, Pansy Pilkington (his fiancée) and Butch Ford, fight manager, are his friends. Herne and Pansy go with Bill and Barbara on their marriage trip the day of the fight. Jack Fairfax, Bill's enemy, tries to wreck them in his automobile.

I was afraid to wrestle the wheel away from him, for the speed at which he was travelling would have made the slightest slip a case of "Good morning, St. Peter!" all around. I tried to reason with this crazy fiend, but I got absolutely nowhere. The only one which kept their head in what looked like the death car was my Barbara. Reaching forward from the back, she switched on the ignition with a sudden, unlooked-for turn of her hand. Fairfax swore savagely and moved his head—in time for his jaw to connect with my pay-off left hook!

He slumped down in the seat a total loss, and I grabbed the wheel, bringing the car to a stop on the edge of a ditch. Married and nearly bumped off in the same hour, Pansy was two inches from a swoon, but Barbara and Herne talked her out of it. While they were engaged in that pastime, I dragged Fairfax out of the car, propped him up against a tree at the side of the road and left him there. I knew he'd be picked up soon—the reports of our wild dash through these little towns would take care of that! Then I jumped in, stepped on the starter and we continued our delightful journey to New York. All I had to do after that little nerve-teasing thriller was to try and punch my way into the world's heavyweight title!

I nearly had to box Butch Ford first. My strange absence had him fit to be chained by the time I reached the dressing room, after seeing that Barbara, Pansy and Herne got their ringside seats.

I finally wrestled myself free and took a solid drive in the stomach on the break. It was the heaviest punch the champion had landed on me during the fight, and it buckled my knees. As he rushed in to take advantage of my distress, I established him twice with a left to his bum eye. These two blows unbalanced him, but he charged desperately, knowing full well that nothing but a knockout could save his title now. I missed a left hook, but connected with a right to the side of the head and again the champ fell to the mat, a beaten man. If that ever was one! Eighty thousand maniacs gasped around the ring as he was splitting the air with his roars. The heavyweight title was in my right glove—as last I'd reached the top of the heap!

Add this up! The champion staggered to his feet at nine, barely beating the count—in fact, many swore afterward he'd actually been counted out on that fifth knockdown. Be that as it may, I fairly ran at him and let fly a right-hand punch just as the bell rang. I tried to pull the blow, but it landed on his jaw, a split second after the song—that's a thing which often happens in a bout where both boys are trying—you've seen it yourself. It's a technical foul, but never claimed or penalized even in a preliminary fight, as its delivery is purely a accident.

But the champ's handlers were smart. They knew I was going to raze their man, and they'd been watching eagerly for any chance to save his title. So the instant my punch landed after the bell they jumped into the ring, bellowing "Foul!" Dazed and sick from the shelling he'd just took, the champion then pulled one of those funniest rags in the history of boxing. I guess me and my camp was the only ones which didn't see the giggle in it. What does this jumble do when he hears his seconds claim a foul but clap both gloves over his stomach and sink to the floor, twisting his face like he's in mortal agony. He holds his stomach and I'd clipped him on the jaw. Even the hard-boiled ringsters were panicked by this one, but after a minute's hesitation the referee waves me to my corner, reaches down and holds up the champion's glove, giving him the fight on a foul!

Then, with a weird howl, Left Hook O'Brien took a punch at the referee, Butch Ford swooned and the crowd went amuck. When the last sweating fan had gone home the arena looked like a earthquake hit it! All which was left of the ring itself was a little strip of bloody canvas. I'd played out of hand out and been gripped out of a world's title. When Shifty Jones unlaced my gloves I stood at the ropes and hurled 'em as far from me as I could throw.

I grabbed the wheel, bringing the car to a stop....

However, lack of time shut off Butch's bawling out and in a few minutes I was in the ring with my handlers, staring out at a surging ocean of excited faces. I got what is known as a ovation—the papers said me for more than three minutes. The champ and his caretakers showed their way down a aisle shortly afterward to a scattering volley of handclaps, with plenty razzerberries mixed in. So I rushed across the ring and met him in his own corner with a wicked left hook to the heart. He changed color and tried to clinch, but I kept him off with another hard life to the body. The trigger all set on my right, just in case. The champ charged in desperately, and I saw my chance. I whipped a right to his chin, and he staggered, with the place in an uproar. He was short with a left to the head, and I put everything I had in stock into another right which landed smack on his mouth. The sock of the glove was still in the air when the champion toppled over with a crash!

The champion reached his feet at the count of four, fell into a clinch which I couldn't prevent and just hulked there on his feet. He made a dying effort and clipped me on the right with a stiff punch, but I came back with a right to the button which took him for the third knockdown. The referee had reached eight and the champ had reached one knee when the song ended the round.

Well, all Mr. Champion had showed me was that he had freckles, and at the bell for the second round I ran out ready to end it. The champ was slow to leave his corner and I began chasing him all around the ring, sparing for a opening for my right. He suddenly let go a left for my jaw, missed and tried a overhand right which caught me on the head.

A short, sizzling right hook landed fair on my chin. I bet that wall-plop lifted me a couple of inches from the floor, and this sudden turn of affairs put the house in a frenzy. The punch didn't fatten me, but it scrambled my brains! I didn't know what it was all about and there was a auto race going on in my head. Even the roar of the crowd seemed faint and many miles away. I suppose it was habit which enabled me to go into a shell and cover up, while the champion flailed away at me with both gloves in a furious attempt to slap me for a trip.

I finished that round and the third in a dream, my mind a complete blank! By instinct alone I defended myself, for I hadn't the faintest idea of what was going on around me. Butch and my handlers realized I wasn't right, and during the rest they worked over me frantically—boasting me with ice water, kneading the back of my neck and my temples and shoving the ammonia bottle halfway up my nose. None of this had the slightest effect, and with a world's title and the million which goes with it at stake Butch decided on stern measures. Between the fourth and fifth rounds my manager and seconds held it matches against my bare back, hoping the pain would shock me enough to clear the cobwebs from my head! A nice, clean sport, prize fighting—that!

Well, burning my flesh did the trick! With the going for the fifth round I was out of my trance, my scorched back was punishing me plenty and I was raring to go. The champion tried a overhand left, which I blocked. He ducked a right to the jaw and drove me into a neutral corner with a storm of rights and lefts to the head. The ropes scraped against my raw back and stung me into a crazy rage. I hooked both gloves hard to the body and the champ bent over like a tree in a cyclone. "Bring it up, Bill!" chanted the mob in a unifying chorus. I brought it up—a upping chorus, which put this mock orange on his shoulder blades! He took seven, and when he got up, he dived into a clinch, a sorry-looking sight. The excited referee kept slapping me on the back and yelling for me to break, but he never said a word to the champ, which had both my gloves pinned to my sides with his arms. The crowd began yelling for the referee to break, screaming for him to pull the champion off me and to make him fight. They seemed to be with me now to a man.

I finally wrestled myself free and took a solid drive in the stomach on the break. It was the heaviest punch the champion had landed on me during the fight, and it buckled my knees. As he rushed in to take advantage of my distress, I established him twice with a left to his

SMILES.
A smile is quite a funny thing; It wrinkles up your face, And when it's gone you never find its secret hiding place. But far more wonderful it is To see what smiles can do; You smile at one, he smiles at you, And so one smiles makes two. He smiles at someone since you smiled, And then that one smiles back; And that one smiled until the truth You fail in keeping track. Now, since a smile can do great good By cheering hearts of care, Let's smile and smile and not forget That smiles go everywhere!

Slang is fruitful, for instance, a peach had a date with a prune and when she handed him a lemon he went plum crazy.

Waterfall Fails To Halt Practice Of Elevens Preparing For Appearances

Driving rains may send the river up, put farmers in the house for the day and give the streets a much needed bath, but downpours have as much effect on ducks as on the elevens of Albany-Decatur when they prepare for an onslaught on Friday afternoon.

Driving away in the face of a flood backs slipped and slid toward the opposing lines in their last chances at a scrimmage before the dawning of another invasion. Albany prepares for a Ryan's X Roads invasion, while Decatur invades Tusculumbia to tackle Deshler Hi.

The teams will probably take light workouts this afternoon in the windup of the week's work. Albany Hi is going to present a patched up lineup Friday afternoon against the Ryan's people. The familiar faces of Herman Papenburg, Billie Martin, Ed Perie, Raphael Sartor and perhaps Henry Papenburg will be missing. Herman Papenburg has been suffering with injuries the entire season, while Henry Papenburg is hardly likely to recover from his cold in time for the first whistle Friday afternoon. Both have been mainstays on the Albany eleven and their services will be missed. Frank Owens and Heywood Tapscott likely will take the places on the two flanks. Thompson and Jackson will handle the tackles, while Wiggins and Thrasher will go into the guards. Terry or Coggin will take the pivot position. A light line, but a fighting line that knows how to stop things coming their way. Bishop will lead the backfield with Thoms and Wade as running mates. Gaudin will be used in case Henry Papenburg does not return to the lineup.

The game will be called at three o'clock at Malone Park and is the last home game of the season. Albany plays at Hartsville on Thanksgiving.

Decatur probably will be in pretty good condition for the Tusculumbia tilt. Giles will likely be working at his flank and that helps the chances of his team considerably. Wade at the other end is a fit running mate for Giles. Price will be at his usual place at tackle. West will handle his affairs in the backfield, while Austelle is very likely to start, having shown more speed and fight than other backs this week. Austelle is fast and with any sort of interference should get away for nice games.

Decatur is not at all confident over the outlook as Deshler is stronger this year than last. This fact, coupled with the game to be played on a foreign field is going to give Decatur a tremendous job in holding forth against the Tusculumbians.

"We're In The Navy Now" Is a Wow; Now Showing At Princess Theatre

Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery opened today at the Princess in "We're in the Navy Now" and believe me it's a wow. If you remember their fine performance in "Behind the Front"—Well we're in the Navy Now is just as funny. If you're seeking real entertainment you will surely get it in this fine comedy. On the same program is another fine pathé comedy a burlesque "Don Key (son of Burro)."

The vaudeville bill will be completely changed again today so that you will have a new show from the screen to the stage.

Car Is Wrecked; Driver Escapes

M. M. Hipps, resident of near Eva, was unhurt recently in an automobile crash which completely demolished the machine he was driving. The car dived off a high hill and was broken to pieces, but the driver was not injured at all.

Six Ears Of Corn On a Lone Shank

Another freak of corn growth was on display today in the Morgan County National Bank, the specimen being six ears of corn growing on one shank. Five of the ears are comparatively small, while the sixth is of ordinary size. The corn was grown by J. G. Cloud, at Bloomfield, Madison county.

PRINCE ALBERT makes the grandest home-rolled cigarette that ever took form in your fingers. That isn't a mere claim. It's a statement of fact, backed up every few minutes by happy roll-your-owners everywhere! It's the tobacco, Men—that's the reason.

For P. A. is tobacco that is tobacco... the finest that ever lifted its head to the sun. First of all, it's crimp-cut and ideal for rolling. Doesn't take wings of the first little breeze. It saves time, temper, and tobacco. It burns better, too, for the same reason.

But that taste! That's the big thing after all. A cigarette made with P. A. is cool as a tree-top breeze. It is sweet as a melon, ripe and cold. It is fragrant as flowers that beckon the honey-bees. You'll roll 'em and smoke 'em morning to midnight, and enjoy every one.

If you sometimes smoke a pipe (or would like to), try Prince Albert this way too. Pipe-smokers who thought they were all set on a smoke-program have tried Prince Albert and found it a revelation. Buy some P. A. today. Try this wonderful tobacco both ways.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.
